

PRODUCTS LIABILITY LITIGATION

Our Product Liability attorneys at Ray Quinney & Nebeker defend manufacturers, distributors, and dealers in wrongful death, catastrophic personal injury and other product liability claims in state and federal courts throughout Utah and the Intermountain West. We act as lead and local counsel for major national and international clients involved in large-scale mass tort actions, including multi-district litigation, across the country. We are also proud to represent a host of local companies. Our clients include drug and medical device companies, motor vehicle and aircraft manufacturers, all-terrain vehicles, heavy equipment and recreational equipment manufacturers.

We tailor our approach as advocates to the individual needs of each client. Our legal team is aware of our clients' need for cost-effective solutions and active communication throughout the course of our representation. Our attorneys have extensive experience at trial in state and federal courts across the country. We also have attorneys among our ranks who have had previous experience as in-house counsel, bringing a unique perspective to our clients' challenges in the product liability realm. Our highest priority is understanding our clients' goals, their business, their industry, and their future.
